WILLIAM BERNARD ELECTED HEAD OF MOKENA LOCAL OF PURE MILK

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

SIGNIFICANT.—The whole world uses 24 millions of tons of paper in a single year. The United States consumes 15 million tons, leaving only 43 per cent, or 9 million tons, divided among all the other nations of the world.

STRANGE.—Strange, isn't it, that so many APPARENTLY sincere persons urge upon us the "VALUE" of ideologies having their roots amid ignorance in backward countries? If Russia, Yugoslavia, Spain, Italy, and other countries of narrow provincialism and low-mindedness could step up their reading—that is, with FREEDOM to freely read what FREE people write—the world rapidly would assume a more harmonious complex, tolerance would grow, restrictions on religious freedom would disappear. Whatever our faults, and, as humans, we have our share, the good old United States habit of developing learning set us up as leaders of enlightenment in the world. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, England (and Germany, again, in the future), with no strings on religious freedom, are like us, because, like our philosophy, they advance learning, and learning is a barrier to intolerance, is a barrier to restrictions on religious liberty.

OUR SAFETY.—Our national reading habits, the educational programs, the enlightenment that is a part of that—that explains why in the United States communism, a small, vicious minority, has not dared to exercise force, as in France and Italy. True the subversive elements have done much damage in instigating unjust strikes, in spreading dissatisfaction among otherwise loyal and well-paid workers, in misleading many who appear to look upon learning as a useless use of time, but they dared not risk physical force among SO MANY WHO DO READ AND UNDERSTAND. In Yugoslavia it was different, as in Poland, Romania, Bulgaria (although the latter's Mohammedan population probably will save the country), and it was different in France and Italy. Spain, where education is not officially considered the first strength of a nation, the government is totalitarian, and as bad as communist governments.

STIFF PENALTY.—Britons do not look favorably upon extra privileges for the more fortunate placed in life. When Britain imposed wartime restrictions, those restrictions were for all, from the king to the most humble citizen. In peacetime, it is the same. The other day a "prominent" and well-to-do citizen was fined $2,000 (U. S. value) for spending too much money in building a new residence. The fact that he wanted the extra "comfort" of a central heating plant had no weight with the court. He was fined, and he paid. Whatever faults we may find with our British cousins, special privilege before courts is not one of them. We need more of that spirit in this country—all over this country.

STAR'LL HIT YOU.—Not really a star, of course. Actually, it's a strange new comet, but we can't see it here. That is, not yet. And perhaps never. Reason is, it's down in the southern skies—sort of down under, that is. An Australian scientist expects the earth to pass through the tail of the comet. The tail is a mere 40 million miles in length. But the passing through will be harmless, the scientist promises, the only result being harmless showers of meteorites. In 1861 the earth passed through a great comet, like this new comet, but records indicate nothing unusual beyond a widespread glare.

WHERE ITS ORIGIN?—Where did the new comet originate? No one knows. Maybe it's been in outer space for millions, billions of years. Maybe its appearance in the southern skies is its regular schedule in space and time. It may have been there a few hundred years ago or a few thousand or a few million—or billion. No one knows. Experts who study the universe may find out. They may find the comet on regular schedule, or a loose thing on its way to wreck devastation upon the earth. There's one consolation: if a gigantic heavenly body ever hits us straight on we will not worry about it. We just won't be here.

GO ON.—We can't spend too much time in concern over the planet, or anything of that nature. We all have our work to do. If we do our intelligent best, we will be so busy we won't have much time to worry.

Christmas Eve

Christmas Candle burning bright,
Send your beams into the night

On Christmas Eve,

Let your steady, luminous glow
Pierce the darkness here below,

On Christmas Eve,

To the Christ Child on his way

On Christmas Eve.

"Welcome to you, come in, for
This house opens wide its door

On Christmas Eve."

By WILLIAM COLE

JUDY kept her eyes on the Jersey shore line all the while she was talking.

"I . . . I don't know what to do," she said. "He asked me, if I could, to let him know tonight."

She had tried to tell Ted about Lloyd Richards earlier that evening

This Week's Best Fiction

couldn't put it off any more.

"He . . . he says we could be married tomorrow," she went on. "He's staying in town another day."

And there it was! She sat back and pressed her hands in her lap. She didn't want Ted to see how they were trembling.

But Ted wasn't watching. His arms were hooked over the back of the bench and he was staring out on the Hudson. His short-cut hair and dark, brooding face stood out sharply against the cluster of lights from the Palisades. She reached out to touch him—to clear that face, even for a moment—then she fought back the impulse. . . . "Oh, I'm going to kill him!" she thought wildly. "If he just sits there and takes it like that!"

"I think you should do it," Ted said.

Judy went limp. She dug her nails into her flesh and felt nothing. "I . . . I promised I'd call him," she said weakly. "He'll be waiting."

Imagine? Making a crack like that! She'd fix him good!

"Why shouldn't you?" Ted said again. "This Richards can give you the things you should have." He straightened his leg and his heel tore a rut in the dirt path. "What can I give you?"

Nothing, Ted. Nothing at all, you big lug. Only everything a girl . . .

"What could I give you?" Ted went on. "You'd have some life with me. Dinners in cafeterias. Evenings in parks. On our honeymoon, for variety we'd go to a museum. You'd have some sweet life!"

It sounded sweet enough to Judy, but she didn't say as much. This was the beginning of a familiar routine. There was nothing that could be done until it ran itself out.

"A lawyer!" Ted said. He addressed the single star that hung dimly above. "Twenty-five thousand lawyers in New York weren't enough. I had to starve, too."

It didn't do any good to tell him that things were bad all over, that they would pick up; that, after all, he was only out of law school a short time. It didn't do any good, when he was like this, to tell him anything. He glared at the people sitting on the benches around them as though they were directly responsible.

"Let me tell you," he said, "you've got to be somebody to starve to death in this town. Do you think they'll let anyone starve? No! You've got to have background. You've got to have a college diploma and a law certificate and an office to hang them up in, and then, okay, you can go ahead and starve."

The woman on the next bench was eyeing Ted nervously. Judy stood up. "Let's walk a bit," she suggested. She slipped an arm through his and walked lightly beside him, a slim girl in a simple dark dress. Her brown eyes were troubled, as Ted hurried her along. He couldn't stay depressed long—not when she was with him. When they were together, he was soon the real Ted. And that couldn't help but make a success. That was why it was important that they . . .

Ted freed his arm and tried to drop it around her. Judy stepped aside. Ted looked surprised and drew her into the shadow of a tree.

"Hiya, Judy!" He was smiling at her now.

"It's getting late," she said. "I have to call Lloyd."

"Lloyd? Who's Lloyd?"

She looked at him furiously. "We've only been talking about him for the last . . .!"

"Gosh, honey!" Ted ran his hands back over her hair. "You're so swell."

"Ted, now pl. . .!" Judy wrenched her mouth to one side and then closed it quickly. When he let go of her she hung on to his lapels.

Ted spoke through her hair. "You were saying something about some guy named Lloyd?"

JUDY waited until she could feel solid ground again beneath her. "Don't joke about it, Ted, please. The man wants to marry me."

"He does?" Ted shook his head in wonder. "You don't say so?"

This was more like it. This was Ted. Judy sighed. If she could only keep him like that.

"I don't suppose I want to marry you?" Ted said. "I suppose my intentions aren't honorable?"

He was still smiling, but it was very much on the surface. "I suppose, if there weren't a darn good reason, we wouldn't have married long ago?"

Two years, to be exact. Two years that could have been among the happiest in their lives.

"Tell me," Judy said. She tried to keep her tone light. "Just for the record. What was that wonderful reason again?"

Ted turned away, wearily. "Let's skip that for once," he said.

She was as tired of the subject as he was. They had been over and over it countless times without getting any place. . . . Yes, Ted said, he knew all about it. Two could live as cheaply as one, sure. And Judy could keep her job. Sure. Okay, he said, he didn't think she could support him in the manner in which he had become accustomed. And so, until the time he could handle that end of it decently himself. . . .

Judy knew it was useless, but still she persisted. She had used the same phrases so often, she knew them by heart. . . . "Don't you see, darling, we'd at least have each other. . . . Those other things aren't important. . . . We'd at least. . . ."

"Let's not discuss it," Ted said. "We'll just have to wait."

"Why, should we wait?" She clenched her hands angrily. "We don't know how long it'll be. I want to settle it—right now!"

He turned back to her slowly. "I see. Before you speak to your friend, Mr. Richards?"

She had forgotten about that, but now she met his gaze fully. "Yes, before I speak to him."

"It's always good to have a guy in reserve, isn't it?" Ted said.

She gulped in some air. All right, my boy! O. K.! She waved at him airily. "So nice to have known you," she said, and walked away.

"What was so nice about it?" Ted called after her.

Oh, it was pretty nice, Theodore, don't kid yourself. But Judy didn't glance back. She crossed the drive and went on down the street.

Back in the park there, she knew, he was miserable. And that made her miserable, too. But they couldn't go on like that indefinitely. There was no other way.

Besides, it wouldn't last long. She knew his moods perfectly. Let's see now. She looked at her watch. Two minutes for despair, then the next two for thought . . . and then, in about two or three more. . . .

She slowed down. She wasn't so sure now. They'd fought before and sometimes hadn't made up for days. But then he didn't have much to worry about. He could just let it slide. He could let everything slide. This time. . . .

She was near panic when she reached the corner—and then she heard heavy footsteps behind her. She caught a glimpse of Ted as she rounded the building. And his wild, frightened face was enough. The only thing that troubled her now was where they would live—uptown or out in the suburbs.

As for her conscience, that didn't trouble her at all. Consciences, sometimes, were pretty much of a bore. And as for Lloyd Richards—well, she wouldn't even have to call him. Lloyd knew her answer. She had given it to him that afternoon.

50,000 Youngsters Select Ideal Father and Mother

NEW YORK. — The ideal father has the daring of Roy Rogers, the generosity of Santa Claus and the protectiveness of singer Jack Smith, according to 50,000 children.

The ideal mother has the "soft robustness" of actress Linda Darnell, the "sultry mystery" of Paul-ette Goddard and the power of Queen Elizabeth.

SCRIPTURE: Revelation 8-15; Isaiah 9:2-7; Luke 2:1-20.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 2:8-20.

The Prince of Peace

Lesson for December 21, 1947

IT IS Christmas now that we are all thinking about, and our lesson for Sunday helps us to rightly approach this blessed season of joy and thanksgiving.

It is suggested that we read Revelation 8-15, Isaiah 9:2-7, and Luke 2:1-20.

"For unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace," Isaiah 9:6.

Thus Isaiah sings of the coming Saviour, and in countless hearts this glad refrain will sound and resound as we come on in these waiting hours for Christmas Eve. It is the season of giving, because God made the Best Gift.

The Christmas story is the story of God's love. There is not enough goodness in man to produce the Christmas spirit—the true Christmas spirit. Only God could so love, and only God can create within our hearts the proper attitudes to worthily celebrate the birth of the Saviour.

Wisdom is fled from us if we drop down into the lowlands of commercializing the Christmas season by seeking gain for ourselves.

The Christmas Story

WE NEVER truly observe Christmas until we live again in the message of John 3:16: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

The Christmas story is the story of God's love. There is not enough goodness in man to produce the Christmas spirit—the true Christmas spirit. Only God could so love, and only God can create within our hearts the proper attitudes to worthily celebrate the birth of the Saviour.

Wisdom is fled from us if we drop down into the lowlands of commercializing the Christmas season by seeking gain for ourselves.

The Greatest Gift

THE gift of Jesus is the greatest gift for the reason that it represents divine giving. Jesus was not forced to give himself. "God commendeth his love towards us in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." The gift was but an expression of the love that lay behind the gift.

If God so loved and gave, let us, by his indwelling Spirit, seek so to love and give. Boys and girls will thus find the answer to their desire to make suitable gifts to parents, and parents to children. Friends will thus find the answer to the often perplexing problem of what to buy for exchange with someone whom you suspect will buy something for you.

Perhaps it would be a wholesome thing if we could be delivered from the tyranny of "exchanging things" at Christmas, and be free to give as our hearts prompt us.

The Prince of Peace

THE bold prophecy in Revelation 11:15, which reads: "The kingdom of the world is become the Kingdom of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever," is the lifting thought of this lesson. That is Christmas fulfilled!

How this prophecy challenges our present world of fear and suspicion! Instead of the hysteria which has characterized our nation for months, we should have been strong in the gentleness of God—strong enough to dismiss the thought of pillage by another—gentle enough to drive Communism from the earth.

For let us well remember that the program of the Prince of Peace is not one day out of the year. It is an enduring program of progress among all men of goodwill.

The Song of Triumph

IN VAIN shall we observe another Christmas season if we allow it to come and go without joining in the song of triumph which the angels would ever teach us. There is hope for this bedarkened world. There is a song for every heart. There is a light for every home. There is a gift for every life.

"Glory to God in the highest, And on earth peace."

It is, then, the high and holy task of every Sunday school teacher, every parent, every Christian, to sing this song of triumph. Only through personal faith in the Lord Jesus Christ can be burdened, frightened souls catch the cadence of the choiring angels. But we have the promise of God that every seeking soul may have this peace, this poise, this victory.

Permit me, please, to wish for you, and each of you, the blessed experience of the inward happiness of Christmas with Christ.

Corn Belt for Soybeans
Soybeans are grown almost wholly in and generally throughout the eastern half of the country, from Minnesota to New York and south thereof. Acreage is concentrated chiefly in the corn belt, particularly in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri. There is considerable acreage also in the lower Mississippi valley and parts of the Southeast. Illinois alone has more than one-third of the country's total acre-

Quality of Our Wool
Heavy use of apparel wool in the later war years was met increasingly with imported wool. Only 18 per cent of the mill consumption last year was of domestic origin, or about one-half the average annual consumption of domestic wool in the years 1935-39. Domestic wool, to compete with high-quality foreign wools and synthetic fibers, must be improved in fiber and produced more cheaply. U. S. department of agriculture specialists report.

Rail Value Increased
First railroad in the United States was opened in 1830, reports a Twentieth Century fund survey. By 1890 net capitalization of the railroads of the country amounted to 7½ billion dollars, while 40 years later it was 2½ times as large.

New Style Poker
The card game, poker, is, in principle, almost as ancient as playing cards, but its name and present form of the game originated in the United States early in the 19th century.

Spools First Used
Silk thread was first placed on spools in 1849 by Gen. Merritt Hemmaway in his factory at Watertown, Conn. Before that time silk was sold in skeins.

Vaulting Chimpanzees
Captive chimpanzees, given stout sticks or poles, soon devise a crude form of vaulting. The animals use the pole as a sort of crutch in this play activity.

First 18-Hole Course
The first 18-hole golf course was built by the California Golf Club, Belmont, Ill., in 1893. Previous courses were 6, 9 and 12 holes.

"So-o-o... if you can afford a washer,
you can afford a BENDIX!"

("... and I'll put a Bendix Gift Certificate in her Christmas stocking!")

No need for mistletoe at your house if you present your leading lady with a Bendix!

No need to torpedo the family budget either... because the Bendix costs as much as $90 less than other fully automatic washers. What's more, it costs far less to operate than old-fashioned washers. Its savings on soap alone pay you back about $10 a year. Uses gallons less hot water.

Give her the only washer which has proved in ten whole years of trouble-free service, that it can wash, triple-rinse and damp-dry the wash, automatically.

Here's all you do—Tell your Bendix Dealer you want to give a Bendix Washer for Christmas. He'll arrange the terms and fill out a Gift Certificate you can hang on the tree.

Nutrition is Your Business and Ours

In this wintry month, as America prepares for that feast which celebrates the birth of the Prince of Peace, men and women of good will take spiritual stock, give thanks for many blessings.

Well-nourished bodies and minds are the wealth of America. One of the great blessings that this country enjoys is the food it produces in such abundance. Farmers and ranchers who produce this food, and we at Swift & Company who process and distribute it, have an occasion for satisfaction in our teamwork. Together we can say—and proudly—"Nutrition is our business."

Good nutrition begins with soil itself. Out of the soil come the crops—the fruits and grains and vegetables we eat. Out of the soil also come the grasses and legumes and grains on which livestock feed—the very foundation of the meat and dairy products that are the protein backbone of our nation's food.

Today the American people are better nourished than ever before in history. This is cause for pride and rejoicing. For a better fed, healthier people leads to a stronger nation with greater capacity for clearer thinking, for work and production.

Good nutrition adds life to your years and years to your life. Good eating, which today we call the science of nutrition, is not an accident. It must be planned—beginning with the preparation of the soil and continuing through the raising of the crops and livestock, to the selection and preparation of meals for the table. This is an activity in which we all play an important part. Swift men of research and technology, like you farmers and ranchers all over America, are seeking ways in which the food of our people may be improved and our joint operations made to thrive ever more abundantly.

Martha Logan's Recipe for MINCEMEAT

1 pound cooked beef	1 1/2 pounds brown sugar
shank, chuck, or neck meat	1 quart cider
1 cup meat stock	2 teaspoons salt
1/2 pound suet	2 teaspoons nutmeg
4 pounds apples	2 teaspoons cloves
1/2 pound currants	3 teaspoons cinnamon
1 pound seeded raisins	5 tablespoons lemon juice

Pare, core, and chop apples. Chop together currants and raisins. Add apples, sugar, cider, and meat stock. Cook about 5 minutes. Grind meat and suet. Add with seasonings to apple mixture. Simmer 1 hour, stirring frequently to prevent burning. Add lemon juice. This mincemeat may be made ahead of time and canned for use throughout the holiday season. (Yield: 4 quarts)

Track Down the Facts

The beaver is an industrious and intelligent animal. He fells trees, builds dams, and wastes little effort or material. A "by-product" of his building operations—the bark of limbs and logs—provides his supply of winter food.

We in the livestock and meat industry have been "busy as beavers" developing methods of saving the different by-products of livestock. These products benefit the human race in many ways. Many ailments are relieved by extracts from livestock glands. Numerous ordinary articles, such as glue, buttons, combs, knife handles, soap, etc., originate from livestock.

Under normal conditions the returns from livestock by-products are almost large enough to offset the operating and marketing expenses of the meat packers. The value of by-products has reduced the average cost of meat to consumers and has increased the prices the producer receives for livestock.

Business is Built on Faith

The American business system is based on keeping faith with the people whom business serves. For example, if Swift & Company is to continue to be successful, five distinct groups of people must have faith in our ability to serve them: producers, stockholders, employees, retailers and consumers.

Farmers and ranchers look to us to provide a daily cash market, and to compete in buying their livestock and other products. We, in turn, depend on you for raw materials. Our operations and yours are interdependent and based on mutual trust in each other's fair dealing.

The 64,000 stockholders invest their savings in Swift & Company with faith that good management will earn them a fair return on their investment. To keep that faith, the company must earn a reasonable profit.

Another definite responsibility of management is to provide regular employment, good working conditions, plants and tools for the 74,000 employees of Swift. Here again, mutual faith and understanding is essential.

In serving retailers in every city and town in the nation, Swift is very conscious of its responsibilities to this fourth important group. Through exacting quality-control we are able to supply the retailers with the grade and type of products their trade demands. To serve them faithfully, we have to study and understand their problems, and give them an understanding of ours.

The fifth and largest group served by Swift is the consumers of the nation. Their faith in the Swift name and Swift's branded products is the very basis of our business—and a great asset to both you and us.

As we review the operation of Swift & Company at year's end, we again resolve to do everything in our power to justify the faith placed in our business by so many people.

John Holmes
President, Swift & Company

OUR CITY COUSIN

Why does City Cousin cry?
He has no room for his Mince Pie!

COMPETITION SETS THE PACE

There's lots of competition in the livestock and meat industry—both in the buying of livestock, and in the selling of the meat and by-products. U. S. Government reports show the best evidence of this competition when they list a total of more than 4,000 meat packers and more than 22,500 other commercial slaughterers operating in the United States. Of course, Swift & Company does not bid against every one of these 26,500 slaughterers at every point at which it buys livestock. However, there isn't a purchase of livestock or a sale of meat made that doesn't have to meet a considerable number of actual or potential bids of competitors.

To all our friends on America's farms and ranches, we at Swift & Company wish

a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

P. T. A. Meeting

The regular meeting of the New Lenox P. T. A. came to order Tuesday evening in the school gymnasium with Mrs. Bernard Schuller presiding. The pledge to the flag was given and Mrs.
Phyllis McCoy led the group in singing of several Christmas carols, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Amos Bruns.

John Oster, principal, reported that the mats for the gymnasium would be here some time next week. He also announced there would be a special meeting in the school gymnasium Tuesday at 8 p. m. The Will county school survey committee will explain the school needs of New Lenox and Frankfort townships. He asked that all parents be present if possible. Because of the crowded conditions in the school, there will be no evening Christmas program this year. The children will have a gift exchange and party in their rooms
December 23 followed by caroling around the Christmas tree in the gym.
The P. T. A. will furnish refreshments and treats for all the children. Because the stage has to be used as a classroom, many groups in New Lenox have been deprived of the use of the gymnasium. The need for a civic center for all was discussed.

The room count banner was awarded to the third grade. Mrs. O. A. Hills, program chairman, introduced the junior choir of Trinity Lutheran church, directed by Mrs. A. O. Bruns. They sang several Christmas carols.

Mrs. Allen Davies, of Joliet was introduced by Mrs. Hills. She gave a dramatic reading on "The Miracle of 34th Street."

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by the third grade mothers from long tables decorated in Christmas colors, the work of Mrs. Ruth Mahwood, third grade teacher.

Royal Neighbors Elect

The Royal Neighbors met Wednesday of last week at the home of Mrs.
Josephine Sayers for their annual Christmas party and election of officers. Potluck dinner was served at noon, followed by the meeting which was conducted by Oracle Edith Sayers. Officers re-elected were Oracle, Edith Sayers, vice oracle, Josephine Sayers;
past oracle, Hattie Pugh; chancellor, Lena Lorenz; recorder, Laura Carlson;
recorder, Merna Seivert; marshal, Myrtle Alexander; inner sentinel, Margaret Snyder; outer sentinel, Mary Marshall; flag bearer, Anna Kennedy-manager, Nettie Tounshendeau. Games were played after the meeting. Hostesses for the next meeting will be Anna
Marshall and Nettie Tounshendeau.

To the many kind friends who remembered me with beautiful cards and other tokens of affection, during my illness, I want to say "thank you" from the very depth of my heart.
I felt that God was good by giving me friends.

It is my joy in life to find

At every turning of the road,
The strong arms of a comrade kind,
To help me onward with my load;
And since I have no gifts to give,
My daily prayer is while I live,

And love alone must make amends,
"God make me worthy of my friends."

Mrs. Frank J. Kohlhaugen

I also want to thank the many good people who sent me news for my column during the past year to make it interesting. I shall appreciate your

Cotton Bale Yields American Tobacco

BRINKLEY, Ark.—Josef Balcar, superintendent of a cotton mill in Nachod, Czechoslovakia, likes American cigarettes. He was introduced to them by GI's in his country, but lately Josef has had no way of buying American cigarettes. He missed them very much.

One day in his plant, Josef noticed the name of an American compress on one of the bales of cotton. He took down the name and address and wrote a letter to the Southern Compress in Brinkley, according to the National Cotton Council.

When his letter arrived at the compress, everyone was at a loss as to what to do—the letter was written in Josef's native tongue. Finally someone thought about sending the letter to the International Center in Memphis, Tenn., where a translator deciphered the Czechoslovakian.

Asks for Cigarettes

Josef had written, "Send me some of your cigarettes, and in return I'll send you collector's stamps or something else to repay your kindness."

Right away Mrs. S. N. Dodson, clerk at Southern Compress, sent a supply of America cigarettes to the cotton mill operator in Czechoslovakia and wrote him a letter to tell him they were on the way. Already Mrs. Dodson has received a second letter from Mr. Balcar—in English this time—expressing his gratitude.

Household Hints

Slip-cover baby's bottle. A wool bag will keep the milk from cooling. A drawstring at the top will fit the cover snugly to the bottle.

Be sure your windows are clean before you put wreaths and candles in them.

To keep a recipe card in view and out of the way while cooking, insert the card between the tines of a fork placed handle down in a glass.

Rub vaseline or lard on door knobs, hinges, and other hardware before painting a room. Daubs of misplaced paint may then be wiped off easily.

If you are looking for ways to stretch your Christmas budget—here's good news! Make a list of all the smokers you know and give them either of these two popular gift items featured by your local dealer—a carton of flavorful Camel Cigarettes or a pound tin of mild, mellow Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco. Both gifts come ready to give. The Camel carton comes in a colorful holiday dress, containing 200 mild, rich-tasting cigarettes. And Prince Albert—the National Joy Smoke—is offered in the popular full pound container. Even a card is unnecessary for these gifts—space is provided for a personalized Christmas greeting. You'll be "tickled pink" when you see the hearty reception your friends will give holiday-wrapped Camels and Prince Albert!—Adv.

Trend Toward Religious Christmas Indicated

People are placing greater emphasis this year on the religious significance of Christmas. This is indicated by the popularity of Christmas cards featuring whimsical angels, snow-covered landscapes about village churches, the traditional Bethlehem scenes and similar religious themes.

Many of this year's greetings recall the first Christmas with passages from the scriptures and famous prayers, illustrated by colorful Nativity scenes and reproductions of famous Madonnas. Present-day religious practices are emphasized by congregations streaming to church on Christmas morning, families praying and choir boys singing "Noel."

comrades of the cross

I cannot think or reason,
I only know He came.
With hands and feet of healing
And wild heart all aflame.

With eyes that dimmed and softened
At all the things He saw,
And in His pillared singing
I read the marching Law.

I only know He loves me,
Enfolds and understands—
And oh, His heart that holds me,
And oh, His certain hands.

The Man, the Christ, the Soldier,
Who from His cross of pain
Cried to the dying comrade,
"Lad, we shall meet again."
—By Willard Wattles.

English Schoolboys Originated Cards

The basic idea for today's expressive Christmas greetings traces back to an old English custom. More than 250 years ago, English school children demonstrated their penmanship by drawing elaborate "Christmas Pieces" using large sheets of special paper with engraved borders picturing the year's important events.

Character of Santa Claus Leads Others

No other Christmas symbol has a greater hold on the youth of the world than the character of Santa Claus. He probably originated in Holland and was imported to America by the early Dutch settlers. While his character has been changed in different countries and regions he remains in spirit the same Santa that came from Holland.

Our Favorite Trees For Christmas

FIR and spruce are the predominating favorites among Christmas trees. Balsam fir always has been an American favorite. The story goes that the Lord sent three messengers—Faith, Hope and Love—to find a tree as high as Faith, as eternal as Hope, and as widespread as Love, and which bore the Sign of the Cross on every bough. They brought back the balsam fir. Three varieties of spruce, blue, white or Norway, also are big sellers in the tree markets.

If your tree is neither fir nor spruce, you may have some variety of pine or cedar. Almost any evergreen makes a Christmas tree, the species being dictated largely by where you live. In Colorado folks use the lodgepole pine because the fir grow too high up in the mountains to be cut and shipped easily. Tennessee uses white cedar, and in California you may even get a redwood.

Burning of Greens Is Ancient Festivity

The Burning of the Greens has formed a central part of Twelfth Night festivities in England since the Middle Ages. Large fires were held to purify the fields and to assure bountiful crops. Everyone in the district gathered together to sing the Wassail Song and to drink from the Wassail Cup.

The ceremony was revived in America in 1930, when George M. Haushalter held a Burning of the Greens at Rochester, N. Y., and since has become an annual event there as well as in other communities. Discarded Christmas trees and wreaths were held for the New Year's celebration, then collected and burned at a gala community bonfire. It has been accepted as the end of the New Year's celebrations.

Object to Christmas

To the Jehovah's Witnesses, a Christmas tree in one's home "signifies that one is willing to worship the evil descending all the way from Nimrod."

The Witnesses also believe that Christmas should not be celebrated because it is an admixture of a Christian idea and a pagan setting. The older Witnesses still observe Christmas because the founder nowhere spoke against it.

Champion Farmer MORRIS BUERMAN Prefers

Firestone CHAMPION GROUND GRIPS

Because They

OUT CLEAN

OUT PULL

OUT LAST

ANY OTHER TRACTOR TIRE

CHAMPION FARMER BUERMAN uses Firestone Champion Ground Grips on his tractors, because he knows they clean up to 100% more effectively, pull up to 62% more, last up to 91% longer, and roll smoother over highways.

This superiority is based on patent rights which permit only Firestone to build tractor tires with connected curved traction bars. Curved bars are stronger... like a curved roof. They're braced... like a corner fence post. They cut into the soil with the cleaving, cleaning action of a plowshare. The tapered openings between the bars throw out mud and trash. Connected bars don't bend, wipe and wear like the bars on broken center tires. And because the bars are connected, the tire rolls along in smooth, continuous contact with the highway.

Be sure to specify Firestone Champion Ground Grips when you order your new tractor... or when you buy replacement tires for your present equipment. They'll pull more... last longer... and they'll cost no more than ordinary tires.

FIFTY TONS OF CHERRIES! That is the average annual harvest of Champion Farmer Morris Buerman, Sodas, New York. His apple trees annually bear 12,000 bushels, and his peach trees, 1200 bushels. As "The Voice of Cherry Growers" on a series of radio broadcasts, Champion Farmer Buerman contributed much to increase the market demand for cherries, and to encourage growers to improve production methods and produce better quality fruit. The National Cherry Growers Association is an outgrowth of his local association in which he has been extremely active. As a leader in production, as well as in marketing methods, Champion Farmer Buerman naturally prefers Firestone Tires for his equipment.
